minutes yesterday morning to convict Jules Dumont, manager of the "Black Rabbit" dive at 183 Bleecker street, which was raided by Anthony Constock in October.

Judge Cowing gave Dumont fourteen years in State prison. Col. Gardiner was present when the sentence was pronounced.

That was a big blow toward the suppression of vice, said he. There is no lower form of vice than that which fourished in the Bleecker street dive. These people who run vicious houses have all the police courts picketed and it is impossible for any one to obtain a warrant in a police court without all of the dive keep ers in the district learning of it. So I arranged with the Board of Polica Magistrates about getting warrants at the Centre street police court to serve upon persons all over town, no matter whether they were in the district of some other court or not. I went down into the private room of the Magistrate here one day and got a warrant. Had it been for any place in this district all houses of vice would have been closed before it could have been served, but as it wasn't in this district but in another, those persons didn't get wind of the warrant. I am glad to point out that I had begun to act long before the vice crusade had begun. It was my own initiative."

PORCES IN NORTH CHINA. At the Storming of Tientaln Was at Cavite Before at the Head of the Marines His Fine Tribute to Gen. Otta Treasure of Silver He Found in China Worth $378.000.

Col. Robert L. Meade of the Marine Corps reported to Rear Admiral Barker at the navy vard yesterday and took command of the Marine Barracks, relieving Major Thomas Newton Wood who has been in command of the barracks since Col. Pope's transfer to Boston early in the autumn. Major Wood goes to the Marine Barracks at Washington. Col. Meade since his term of sea service on Admiral Sampson's flagship, the New York. in the Spanish war, has been in command of marines in the Philippine Islands and in command of both army and navy forces of the United States ashore in north China. He was sent to Manila when only a small force of marines was there, and, as other battalions arrived, formed a regiment, of which he was in command and of which he was very proud. When the trouble in China became acute he was sent there and, being the senior officer in our service among the land forces, he was in command of the United States contingent in the taking of Tientsin. He fell ill afterward and, after being passed upon by a medical board of survey, was invalided home and ordered to the command of the Marine Barracks at the navy yard in Brooklyn.

Col. Meade is not a stranger in Brooklyn, having been there ten or eleven times. He did not take possession of his house in the yard yesterday, as it is being overhauled, but is stopping at the Hotel St. George. This morning at battalion parade the orders placing him in command will be published and the last formality of his coming will be over. Col. Meade cannot be induced to believe that the situation in China is one for an officer in the service to talk about at length, but he chatted some with friends yesterday of affairs in the Philippines, with occasional references to the north China campaign.

Obituary Notes.

Capt. George D. Wolcott, an old Hudson River steamboat man and for many years comp.ander of the city of Troy, the Citizens' Line sceamer, died on Sunday at his home at 22 Seventh avenue of heart disease. He had been alling for some time and two weeks ago was compelled to leave his boat and take to his bed. Capt. Wolcott was 62 years old. He was born in Brooklyn, his mother being a Duryea and an aunt of Edgar Duryea. Capt. Wolcott first went into the hotel business and for a time managed the old Kevree House. Thirty-two years ago he took to steamboating. He was steward of the steamboat Sunnyside when that boat was pierced by the loe and sank in the river. Of those on board passengers and crew, only a few were saved and one of these was Capt. Wolcott. The City of Troy was then building and he became her first captain. Under him the boat never had a serious accident and he never missed a trip for illness or any other cause until he left his boat for good. Capt. Wolcott served through the Civil War with the Seventy-first Regiment and for a time after its return was its Coloneland received a long service medal. He married Elizabeth Coe of New York who survives him with three daughters. The funeral will be held to-morrow morning from the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church.

CHINAMAN CLUBBED TO DEATH IN AN EAST SIDE LAUNDRY. Wouldn't Tell Where His Money Was -Chloro

form Held Under His Nose While He Was Beaten Suilder Knocked Out by Footpads - Highwayman Caught Red-handed A Chinaman was chloroformed and clubbed death on the East Side yesterday, because he would not tell three white rowdles where his money was. His murderers excaped and as far as could be learned the police haven't any suspicion as to who they were. This was only one of a series of hold-ups which came out pesterday.

Lo Sing was the Chinaman killed. He and his assistant, Chin How, ran a small laundry at 40 Chrystle street Chin Bow ran into a state of great excitement and fold the doc-tors that his friend Lo Sing had been assaulted by three rowdles and was badly hurt. An mbulance was sent to the laundry and took Lo Sing to the hospital while Chin Sow went to the Eldridge street police station.

To the police Chin Sow said that three roughs had come into Le Sing's laundry at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and had demanded to know where he kept his money. When Lo refused to tell them, one of the men then thrust a sponge filled with chloroform under Lo's nose, while another hit him on the head with a club. Lo Sing fell senseless on the floor and then the three for the first time saw Chin Sow watching them and they took to their beels.

The Eldridge street police were too busy hunting vice to get any trace of the assailants At Gouverneur Hospital the doctors say that Lo Sing's skull was fractured Wallace Van Doorn, a builder whose office is at 48 West Forty-third street, and who lives in a handsome house in Mount Vernon, was assaulted and robbed of 350 and his gold watch near the corner of Forty-third street and Vanderblit avenue last Thursday evening, and is now critically ill at his home. He left his office about 6 o'clock to go to the Grand Central Station on his way home. Passing the vacant let near the corner of Vanderblit avenue he was struck down from behind, it is supposed with a elung shot. He lay on the ground for several minutes before he recovered consciousness. Then with difficulty he made his way to the Grand Central Station and took a train home.
